SUCCESSFUL INTERIORS

OFFICE³LOGY[®]

Make room for well-being and success

For over eight decades, we have been developing sustainable interior design solutions that contribute to people's well-being, good health and ability to perform their tasks in the best possible way. We do this by merging aesthetics and functionality with ergonomics and sustainability. The features, design and location of the office interior design should facilitate, invite to and support the activities carried out during the working day, and contribute to a successful and healthy workplace. We are happy to help you with a needs analysis and advice early on in the process to ensure you get the interior design solution that's right for you. Many of our furniture is available in families with many different variants, ensuring holistic harmony throughout the office. Our design is carefully considered from the start, so that our furniture can enjoy a long life with you or the next user. Therefore, they are prepared to be updated or renewed when needs arise or change. A solution based on high quality and great flexibility is automatically good for both people and our planet. That's why our furniture is always contemporary, attractive and useful.

The very wide range of furniture we offer includes our own brands as well as complementary partner brands – everything to ensure you get exactly what you're looking for. In this product overview, you'll find a selection of our products and versions, but there are plenty of other options available. You can choose from a wide range of colours, materials, dimensions and models.

Welcome to view, be inspired and discover our range of furniture for offices!

People, interiors and environment that last over time

For us, sustainability is about creating spaces that promote well-being while at the same time preserving our planet's natural resources. We help you develop flexible, ergonomic and functional solutions that continue to support you as your needs change. Spaces where people thrive and have the right conditions for performing their tasks in the best possible way. High-quality and sustainable material choices are an essential requirement for our furniture. Our production units are located in Sweden, we have control over the entire chain and take responsibility for how our furniture is designed, manufactured and transported. This gives you an investment that lasts for generations.

Circles of Change – Sustainable Circularity by Kinnarps offers a new way of using and thinking about sustainable interior design solutions for public spaces. The concept helps you make sustainable and functional choices from the start, and highlights the three most important parameters when it comes to choosing sustainable and circular interior design.

The result is an interior design with a low lifecycle cost which is designed according to identified needs and promotes well-being, efficiency and success – while you help to preserve our planet's natural resources.

The concept includes a number of circular services such as workplace analyses for offices, schools and healthcare facilities, inventory, refurbishing, renovations and upgrades to give new life to existing furniture.

Design with a purpose

Our design philosophy has been deeply rooted in our DNA since the start in 1942. We create harmony by merging aesthetics and functionality with ergonomics and sustainability. The sweet spot is found where 80 years of experience and knowledge meet curiosity and visionary thinking. The result is something that is timeless, honest and carefully considered down to the smallest detail. Above all, we always base the design on people's actual needs, conditions and dreams. Furniture and solutions that contribute to well-being and success. Creating design with a purpose continues to be our driving force – for you and the next generation.

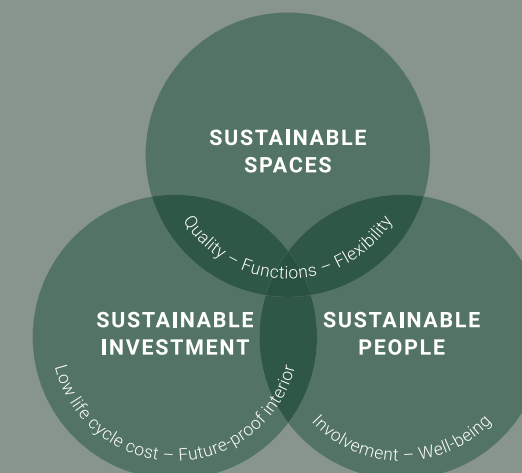

Holistic Ergonomics

Many ergonomic factors need to interact at a workplace in order to promote well-being, creativity, productivity and efficiency. The layout, furniture, acoustics, colours, light and air quality, as well as organisational and social aspects, all need to be taken into consideration. We have long and broad expertise in ergonomics and will guide you to a well-functioning holistic solution. We also help you introduce and implement your interior design solutions, furniture functionality and working methods to enable you to use your spaces optimally.

Make sustainable choices

1. Map and analyse your needs for a long-term solution that suits your organisation.
2. Choose high-quality furniture that is designed to be able to be renewed.
3. Look for ecolabels and certifications, such as FSC®, Möbelfakta and OEKO-TEX®.
4. Ensure quality and safety – through e.g. European standards.
5. Choose suitable materials and colours that are adapted to your spaces.
6. Question how and where the furniture is produced.
7. Look into how the furniture is transported and how the interior is implemented.
8. Be particular in selecting evaluation parameters.
9. Set qualitative sustainability requirements for both new and reused furniture.

Kinnarps Colour Studio

KCS is our harmonised range of materials that have been carefully tested to suit and meet the requirements of public spaces. The majority of the fabrics carry the EU Ecolabel, which sets stringent requirements for environment, function and quality, as well as OEKO-TEX® certification which ensures that neither production nor materials contain chemicals that are harmful to health.

Ensuring that fabrics, other materials and colours harmonise with each other is crucial to create a well-thought-out, inviting and holistic whole. Our advisors will help you determine which colours and materials are best suited to different activities and spaces.

We deliver and install completely according to drawing

Kinnarps has its own unique logistics and delivery system that enables efficient delivery and installation on your premises. Our own staff carry the furniture in, assemble it and place it according to your drawing. Since we pack everything in reusable blankets, no single-use packaging will be left behind and your new spaces will be ready for use when we leave the premises. This also means that we save 270kg of packaging per truck and can handle your delivery with two trucks instead of the industry average of three.

The analysis leads the way

Our Next Office® workplace analysis helps you gather valuable knowledge and data before designing your office spaces. Through various tools and workshops, management and staff are involved throughout the change journey.

Your results are presented in a report including our recommendations for the physical environment. This is where you lay the foundation for how your office should be designed and furnished. The analysis provides you with data so that you can easily follow up on how your spaces are working from year to year.
